Behold Moral Values and Revive Gandhism says Agri varsity Dean

National Service Scheme of TNAU and students club jointly organized the NSS orientation day programme and International day of Non-violence on Oct. 2 2015 at Anna Auditorium of TNAU, Coimbatore. Dr. S. Mahimairaja, Dean (Agriculture) in his presidential address envisaged the fact Ahimsa will help the youth in beholding moral values and revive Gandhism, which is the imminent need of the hour. He called on the youth to abstain from immoral habits like use of drugs, addiction to alcohol and addiction to modern electronic gadgets. He insisted the NSS volunteers to be unique in their thoughts, ideas and execution of their works.

Mr. R. Mahesh Prabu NSS coordinator, Karunya University in his NSS orientation address stressed the fact to link the nature and technology for the upliftment of the nation and students through their innovations should find problem solving solutions to the current societal issues.

Prizes were distributed to the winners of various events like elocution, poem writing, pencil sketching, essay writing and skit conducted to mark the occasion. Students brought alive the Gandhian values through their inspirational talks, poem and skit. Around 400 student volunteers and TNAU NSS programme coordinator. Dr. K. Kumutha, NSS programme officers Dr. Latha, Dr. Suganya, Dr. Kavitha, Dr. Vinoth, Dr. Senthil Nathan and Dr. Thanga Hemavathy, Staff advisor Dr. G.J. Janavi participated in the programme.

Earlier, Dr. K. Kumutha welcomed the gathering. Selvi. Indhu, students club Joint Secretary proposed a formal vote of thanks.
